Justice was reached through error in the Frank case.

Ready money is the kind you've already saved.

We could make out with a heap less of that "good night nurse" express.

There's always room for one more in the probate judge's race.

The Advertiser says Alabama has had too much politics. Yes, of the Advertiser's kind.

Who's heard of old Doc Wiley since he took up the work of a nurse?

High priced gasoline ought to cut down the high rate of speeding.

When it comes to invading, President Wilson is about to say "after you my dear Carranza."

Wonder if John Temple Graves is still in favor of running Ex Governor Slaton for vice president.

War makes way with money about as fast as bucking the wrong side of the cotton market.

If there were no law we are acquainted with a few persons who could get a big assortment of pleasure from writing up some others.

President Wilson says he has a one-track mind. Our governor seems to have just such a track mind as only a bond issue will run over.

Just to keep things from getting dull over in the war country Zeppelins fly out now and then and murder a few women and children.

If game and fish get scarcer while we have a state game and fish warden they ought to get more plentiful soon after we get rid of him.

Pity poor Georgia, she unfortunately had one weak link in her chain of administering justice, and now has to bear the stigma that will be hers on account of the Frank lynching.

It is said that people should not criticize a thing unless they have something else better to offer. Respectfully referred to our governor who is reported to be opposing the legislature for what they have done but never making a suggestion as to what they should have done.

THE NOTE TO AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.
(Savannah News.)
Austria-Hungary didn't expect a favorable reply to her recent note contending that our exportations of war munitions to her enemies were on such a scale as to be "not in consonance with the definition of neutrality." Her aim was to strengthen sentiment in this country against the shipment of ammunition to the allies and perhaps also to create a feeling at home and in Germany that the United States wasn't acting the part of a neutral. And it wouldn't be surprising if the Austro-Hungarian government was inspired by Germany to write the note, Germany herself having a record for selling arms and ammunition to belligerents that prevented her from taking such a position. And, as a matter of fact, Austria-Hungary has a record also for supplying arms and ammunition to belligerents that ought to have prevented her from writing such a note.

The reply of our government was rather sharp. It is calculated to create the impression that our government doesn't think that the Austro-Hungarian government was altogether sincere in questioning the genuineness of the neutrality of the United States. If Germany and Austria-Hungary had ever made a precedent on which to base the policy which Austria-Hungary now wants the United States to adopt the situation would be different; but as they have made no such precedent and never thought of making one it is rather remarkable that our government showed so much good feeling and patience in answering the note.

It has been international usage from time immemorial for neutrals to sell arms and ammunition to belligerents, and hence for this country now to change that rule in the interest of Germany and Austria-Hungary would be a distinctly unneutral act. Besides, it is no business of a neutral to change the law of nations. In fact, it couldn't very well do it without admitting a purpose of helping one side or the other.

There is another thing to be looked at. It is that the United States doesn't keep on hand great stores of arms and ammunition, and if it should become involved in a war it would want to purchase both arms and ammunition. It couldn't consistently deny to others a right it claims for itself. There are many other reasons why our government couldn't comply with the request of Austria-Hungary, all of which are explained at length in the note sent to the government of that country.

The note is so much to the point and shows so clearly that the United States is well within her rights in permitting American ammunition manufacturers to sell ammunition to the belligerents that it isn't probable that there will be any protest against the sale of ammunition by American manufacturers to the allies. It wouldn't of course have done any good if our government had made its reply to the Austro-Hungarian note a great deal sharper than it did but a sharper note would have met with the approval of the great majority of the American people.

WOMEN THE BEST HATERS. A MARKETING ASSOCIATION ALSO NEEDED.
(New York World)

Reports from Berlin refer to the "vindictive hatred" of the German women for their country's foes. From the soldiers' home from the front come words of respect, even of praise, for their adversaries in arms, but the women nurse their enmity; theirs is "haughty Jane's unrelenting hate," and they freely express it.

The fact only proves that German women are "sisters under the skin" with the women of other nations. Is feminine hatred of the enemy more intense in Unter den Linden than in the Champs Elysees or in London's West End? We doubt it. Woman's capacity for hate is equalled only by her capacity for love. Her deeper depths of affection are matched by depths of enmity, where her emotions are profoundly stirred, unknown to man. Men, individually and in the aggregate, fight and forgive. But with women the offense rankles long after the physical wounds are healed.

Hatred is not a new feminine attribute nor is it local to any country. The women of Berlin are no better haters than were the women in the Civil War or the women of Rome and Athens centuries before. Hatred has been a sex prerogative since the beginning of history, and its possession is what makes women in the broader sense the best patriots. There is a theory that women would put an end to war if they had the determining voice. That is a hypothesis of doubtful soundness.

Few women are pacifists at heart, and though the development of political consciousness has made them more keenly appreciative of the terrible price they pay for war, the proposition is a long way from proof that they would abolish it if they could.

HAVE YOU ANY BURN OR SWEET CLOVER SEED FOR SALE?

The markets bureau, attached to the State Department of Agriculture, is receiving a number of inquiries from wholesale seed dealers, seeking information as to where they can purchase different kinds of field seed.

Anyone having such products for sale is requested to get in touch with this office that we may furnish them with detailed information on this subject.

Some of the communities in this state have become unnecessarily alarmed regarding the price for seed pens and velvet beans. It is true, Alabama has raised an enormous crop, but the indications are that a profitable market will be had, and we take this means to caution the farmers against selling their pens and velvet beans too cheap. This office is in position to assist the farmers in locating a profitable market for such products, and it is our earnest desire to serve the farmers in this connection, and we hope they will list their products for sale in this office.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old time recipe, ready to use for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown drug gist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

PICTURE OF AN OLD GARDEN

Your eyes see but a tangled way
Where old-time garden favorites
stray,

Braving the weeds,
Dahlias and zinnias, each in turn
From the rarest red to russet burn
In straggling groups.

Where lilacs lent a purple edge
To glancing shadows in the hedge Unborn for years,
The heart's ease and sweet lady-smocks

Grew side by side with fouro'clocks
That mark the eve.

You would not find by any chance
A Jacqueminot or pink La France

Among the blooms;
But, oh! upon the air so still A Damask rose its soul doth spill
For memory.

For where you glimpse but brook-
on wall
And ragged hedge and weeds,
and all

The wreckage of the years
By remote light of other days
I see prime hedge and ordered ways
To grow unknown.

And down the graveled walk
The roses show and silver hose, Jones.

The mistress of the place
A sutor walks on either side (Albeit paths are not so wide).
And softly woos.

She lingers where the pathways part
And gives to one a "bleeding heart,"

To one a rose
And in that garden there befall
The tragedy the ages tell
Of human love and hate
—Sara Beaumont Kennedy.

French Girl as Mayor

In a town in the south of France a girl of 22 has perform-

August. She was a teacher, and secretary at the mairie, and also qualified as a military nurse.
While waiting to be called upon to nurse wounded she found that

Sweet Dreams Keeps Mosquitoes Off All Night Long, and That's Wherein It Differs From The Ordinary

Thousands of mosquito remedies are good, "while they last," but with Sweet Dreams, the last is all night long—an essential worthy of consideration.

Sweet Dreams is a combination of all that it takes to make a mosquito remedy good, and a self urged to take charge of allans. The administration of the commune was left in her hands, and even in difficult matters, constructions, repairs, and workmen, she carried out the work with no assistance from the commellors. The young "maire" discovered that the latter, while willing to accept the honors of the position, were glad to remit its duties to a young suffragist whose claims to political recognition they would have redueed. She discovered many needed reforms in public health and other departments.—Savannah News.

'Tis well to inquire at the big

FRANK'S BODY TAKEN TO BROOKLYN FOR BURIAL

Frank's body was brought to Atlanta this afternoon and ac-ceted in a barn until a crowd searching for it threatened serious trouble. It was then taken from the barn and to an undertaking establishment where tonight a steady stream of persons passed to view it. The temper of the people seemed not to wreak vengeance upon the lifeless form, but they seemed determined to personally assure themselves that it really was the body of Frank.

Forty policemen were on guard at the undertaker's establishment and a crowd that blocked traffic for more than a block stood for hours in front of the place. The body was shown just as it had been cut down from the tree at Marietta this morning.
